Right Up Their Alley

Excited students were eagerly awaiting the fun to begin last Thursday morning. In honor of finishing perek 7 in Mishnayos, Rabbi Biller's third graders celebrated with a major siyum at New City Bowl where the boys racked up points, spares and strikes. They also scored big in achdus and good sportsmanship. The bowling game was rounded out with pizza and fries sponsored thanks to the Friedmans and drinks sponsored thanks to the Schillers. After a siyum of the caliber of last Thursday's the boys are ready to strike it big as they take on a new perek with newly revived enthusiasm.

Learning Letter "L"

"L" was the featured letter in Pre-1A last week. The class took great pleasure in playing the letter appropriate Lollipop Game. Each student got a turn to choose and name a paper alphabet lollipop. After all the paperwork was completed, the boys were able to choose a real lollipop adorned with a letter on it which they got to keep. A number of boys added to the event by bringing in bonus lollipops to share with their classmates. To add even more to the excitement, the boys used string licorice to form a capital and lowercase "L" and write the word "Look". The game was certainly conducted in good taste as far as the Pre-1Aers were concerned.

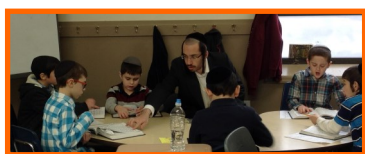

Yetzias Mitzrayim in Second Grade

Rabbi Pruzansky's second graders really benefited from the intense work they put into their major Yetzias Mitzrayim Project. On Sunday morning, their parents got to enjoy their sons' hard work as well when they came for a visit to the yeshiva to take in the impressive array of projects displayed for their enjoyment with the beaming second graders on hand to make sure their

All Downhill

The seventh graders vacated the yeshiva last week. It was all downhill once the talmidim arrived at the top of the mountain for their snow tubing trip. Fearing that the pull of gravity would be too powerful to convince the boys to take a break, a personalized lunch from Pitaland was ordered and eaten by each seventh grader before the trip. The exhilaration of the trip was the perfect break the seventh graders needed to get back to their learning with renewed energy.

Station Rotation

Rabbi Plotzker's sixth graders were introduced to a new aspect of their Station Rotation. The new methodology is called Quizlet which involves various learning modalities. Quizlet prepares the talmidim in a novel way so that the gemara that they will learn later in the next week is pre-learned in an engaging fashion.

7th Grade Essays on Ancient Ships

Viking Ships by Dovi Silber

The Vikings built ships for raids and war. They also had slower ships for passengers and cargo called Knorr. The boats were strong enough to cross the open ocean, but were shallow enough that they could go up the river and surprise people in places where no one expected.

The Vikings traveled to many places. They traveled to the British Isles, as far east as Russia, and as far southeast as Turkey. To help them find their way, they invented a type of sun compass. The Vikings sailed close to the shore whenever possible, watching for landmarks. By watching the birds or even the color of the water, an experienced sailor could tell them when land was close.

Viking ships were built beside a river or inlet of the sea. They would cut long planks of wood for the sides and shorter pieces for supporting ribs and crossbeams. They used wooden pegs to fasten the pieces together. They stuffed animal wool and sticky tar from pine trees into every joint and crack to keep water out. A ship would have one big square sail made of wool. In some ships, the mast for the sail could be folded down. To steer the ship, one man worked a big steering oar at the back. The Vikings were successful shipbuilders and sailors.
